

STORY: Rupert's Ice Cream Shop

Once upon a time there was a man. His name was Rupert. Rupert had an ice cream shop. He made ice cream in his ice cream machine. But the ice cream was white. "This ice cream is too white," said Rupert.

So Rupert put a bucket of peas and a bucket of spinach in his ice cream machine. He made green ice cream.

"Good!" said Rupert. "This ice cream is green, like the grass. The kids will like it."

The kids came to Rupert's shop for ice creams. "This ice cream is green, like the grass." Said Rupert. "You will like it."

But the kids said, "Yuck! We do not like green ice cream!"

SO Rupert put a bucket a bananas and a bucket of butter in his ice cream machine. He made yellow ice cream.

"Good!" said Rupert. "This ice cream is yellow, like the sun. The kids will like it."

The kids came to Rupert's shop for ice creams.

"This ice cream is yellow, like the sun," he said. "You will like it."

But the kids said, "Yuck! We do not like yellow ice cream!"

So, Rupert went to the computer. He looked up ice cream on the Internet.

"Good," said Rupert. "I will make this ice cream, the kids will love it."

"Rainbow ice cream!" said the kids. "Yum! We love rainbow ice cream!"
