

STORY: THE HOUSE SITTERS

Dingle was going away for a holiday. He put a poster in the shop window.

A man came to Dingle's house. He had a big box. "I have come to look after your house" He said.

"Good, But what do you have in that box?" said Dingle.

"Chickens," said the man.

"Chickens!, I can't have chickens in my house." Said Dingle.

"My chickens can't stay in the box, So I can't look after your house." Said the man.

And he went away.

A woman came to Dingle's house. She had a red truck. "I've come to look after your house,"

She said.

"Good, but what do you have in that truck?" said Dingle.

"Goats, I can't have goats in my house." Said Dingle.

"My goats can't stay in the truck, So I can't look after your house."

And she went away.

Molly called Dingle on the telephone ...

"I can look after your house," she said.

"Do you have chickens or goats?" asked Dingle.

"No, I have fish." Said Molly.

"Good, the fish can stay in their bowl. You can look after my house." Said Dingle.

So Dingle went away and Molly came to Dingle's house in a big bus.

She had her fish in a bowl and ... ten kids in the bus!

And when Dingle came home, he got a big surprise!
